

Paige Sullivan, Associate Director

Paige Sullivan is an associate director with Coxe Curry & Associates. She brings a wealth of experience with her to this role from the nonprofit sector, with a background in external communications, editing, and writing. As an associate director, Paige works with clients on fundraising strategy and develops case statements and fundraising materials. Recent clients include Atlanta History Center, Grove Park Foundation, Jewish HomeLife, the Museum of Contemporary Art of Georgia, Okefenokee Swamp Park, One Hundred Miles, and others.

Paige joined Coxe Curry in 2021 after beginning her nonprofit career at Central Atlanta Progress, where she gained first-hand experience overseeing the organization's external communications program, planning and executing events, creating communications and marketing materials, and overseeing special projects.

Paige was the inaugural Susan B. Hitchcock Executive Development Fellow with Turknnett Leadership Group and Agnes Scott College and is an alumna of GeorgiaForward's Young Gamechangers program and the WIN Leadership Academy. In addition to writing and publishing poetry and nonfiction, she serves on the boards of The Wren's Nest and the Agnes Scott College Alumnae Association and is a volunteer tour guide at Atlanta's historic Oakland Cemetery.

Born and raised in Georgia and an Atlanta resident since 2009, Paige graduated summa cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa from Agnes Scott College with a bachelor's degree in English literature/creative writing and psychology, followed by a Master of Fine Arts in creative writing from Georgia State University.
